

DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY
DHS Technology Accessibility Issue Reporting Form

PURPOSE: The purpose of this form is to assist you with reporting a technology accessibility issue or initiating a complaint under Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act. You should use this form if you are an individual with a disability, and because of that disability, you are having difficulty accessing information and communications technology (ICT) provided by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS).

DHS POLICY: DHS is committed to ensuring its Information and Communication Technology (ICT) are accessible to all people, including people with disabilities in accordance with Federal laws. When DHS determines that an Undue Burden, Fundamental Alteration, or Best Meets exception to the Section 508 standards is applicable, or when deploying ICT that fails to meet the applicable 508 standards, DHS will provide access to the information and data to people with disabilities by an alternative means¹. DHS will identify in advance the needs of people with disabilities affected by each exception and implement a plan to meet those needs through alternative means. DHS shall apply the complaint procedures established to implement Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act for resolving allegations of discrimination in a federally conducted program or activity to process allegations of inaccessible ICT, covered under Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act. For more information go to <https://www.dhs.gov/accessibility>.

SECTION 508 STANDARDS: Section 508 requires information and communications technology developed, procured, maintained or used by a federal agency on or after June 21, 2001, to comply with standards issued by the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board. The 508 standards are published at <https://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/CFR-2017-title36-vol3/pdf/CFR-2017-title36-vol3-part1194.pdf>. Information and communications technology includes information technology and other equipment, systems, technologies, or processes, for which the principal function is the creation, manipulation, storage, display, receipt, or transmission of electronic data and information, as well as any associated content. Examples of ICT include, but are not limited to: computers and peripheral equipment; information kiosks and transaction machines; telecommunications equipment; customer premises equipment; multifunction office machines; software; applications; Web sites; videos; and, electronic documents. For more information about the Section 508 law, application, exceptions, and standards, go to <https://section508.gov>.

SECTION 501 and SECTION 504: Section 508 does not limit, or otherwise affect, the rights and remedies available under other parts of the Rehabilitation Act (including Sections 501 and 504). For that reason, the allegations forming the basis of a Section 508 complaint may also form the basis of a separate complaint under Section 501 or 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. For example, the same alleged failure to provide an employee with accessible ICT can form the basis of a Section 508 complaint (processed under Section 504 procedures) and as a separate complaint alleging disability discrimination or failure to accommodate under Section 501 (processed under federal-sector Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) complaint procedures). Similarly, the same failure to provide accessible ICT to a member of the public can form the basis of a Section 508 complaint and a separate disability discrimination complaint under Section 504, such as failure to reasonably modify practices and procedures or failure to provide equally effective communication.

Notice: Section 508 complaints are to be filed with the Federal agency alleged to be in noncompliance. Department of Homeland Security shall apply the complaint procedures established to implement Section 504 for resolving allegations of discrimination in a federally conducted program or activity to process allegations of inaccessible ICT, to process Section 508 complaints.

Section 508 does not limit the rights and remedies available under other parts of the Rehabilitation Act. Thus, when an employee or applicant files a complaint under Section 508, that complaint may also constitute a separate complaint under Section 501 for disability-based discrimination, such as failure to provide a reasonable accommodation. Therefore, a Section 508 complaint could be pursued both as a complaint about disability discrimination or failure to accommodate, which is handled under the Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) complaint process. Similarly, a Section 508 complaint by a member of the public may also constitute a complaint for disability discrimination, such as failure to reasonably modify practices and procedures or failure to provide equally effective communication, under Section 504 and may be handled under both Section 504 and Section 508 statutes.

13. I wish to initiate the following procedure(s) to address my issues(s):

- Proceed as inquiry only and request access to information and data through alternative means.
- Initiate a formal Section 508 complaint based on inability to access information and data through DHS information and communications technology.

14. Have you contacted any other DHS component or other federal, state, or local government agency or court about this complaint?

- Yes, Please list: No
