IMPLEMENTING A VICTIM-CENTERED APPROACH

DHS strives to use a trauma-informed, victim-centered approach to combat human trafficking.

This approach includes practices to minimize victimization and additional trauma, and equally values:

- The identification and stabilization of victims, including providing immigration relief, and
- The detection, investigation, and prosecution of perpetrators of human trafficking.

Noncitizens who have been victimized often:

- Distrust law enforcement, and fear arrest and deportation;
- Fear for themselves and family members;
- Worry about immediate needs (food, shelter, family);
- Have medical needs, including psychological support;
- Are confused about the T visa process; and
- May face language and cultural barriers.

When encountering victims of human trafficking, it is critical to develop rapport and establish trust by:

- Connecting the victim to a victim assistance specialist who can connect the victim to support services;
- Explaining your role, answering their questions, and addressing their fears and urgent needs;
- Being sensitive to cultural differences and language barriers and using a competent interpreter when needed;
- Conducting interviews in a neutral location, away from suspected perpetrators, and only after the victim's urgent needs have been met; and
- Being patient and giving the victim time to stabilize and trust you.

T VISA QUICK REFERENCE GUIDE

Why are T Visas Important?

- They offer stabilization, protection and immigration relief to victims of trafficking
- They strengthen law enforcement's ability to detect, investigate, and prosecute human trafficking.

How Does a Victim Qualify for a T Visa?

- ⊙ The applicant must establish that they:
 - Are a victim of a severe form of trafficking in persons (see sidebar);
 - Are physically present in the U.S., American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, or at a port of entry, on account of trafficking;
 - Cooperated with any reasonable requests for assistance from law enforcement, or qualify for an exemption due to age or an exception due to trauma suffered;
 - Would suffer extreme hardship involving unusual and severe harm if removed from U.S.; and
 - Are admissible to the U.S., or qualify for a waiver of applicable inadmissibility grounds.

How Many T Visas are Available Each Fiscal Year?

- There are 5,000 visas available to principal victims of trafficking.
- The T visa annual cap has never been reached.

What Does a T Visa Provide?

- Immigration status for up to 4 years for principal victims, with the option to include family members;
- Employment authorization (work permit); and
- Access to certain federal benefits and services.

Who Can Complete Form I-914B?

- Any federal, state, tribal, territorial, or local law enforcement agency, prosecutor, judge, labor agency, children's protective services agency, or other authority that has responsibility to detect, investigate, or prosecute acts of trafficking, or convict or sentence the trafficker.

What are the Benefits of Completing the Form I-914B?

- Part of a victim-centered approach.
- An optional form of evidence for applicants to demonstrate victimization and cooperation with law enforcement.
- Creates trust within your community.
- Encourages others to report human trafficking.

What is the Certifying Agency's Role in the T Visa Process?

- Identifies victims of trafficking.
- Detects, investigates, and/or prosecutes acts of trafficking.
- Completes and signs Form I-914 Supplement B.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING INVOLVES THE EXPLOITATION OF AN INDIVIDUAL

⊙ Sex Trafficking is the:

- Recruitment;
- Harboring;
- Transportation;
- Providing;
- Obtaining;
- Patronizing; or
- Soliciting,

of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act through the use of

- Force;
- Fraud; or
- Coercion.

Anyone under the age of 18 who is induced into commercial sex is a trafficking victim, even without the use of force, fraud or coercion.

⊙ Labor Trafficking is the:

- Recruitment,;
- Harboring;
- Transportation;
- Providing; or
- Obtaining,

of a person for labor or services through the use of

- Force;
- Fraud; or
- Coercion,

for the purpose of subjection to:

- Involuntary servitude;
- Peonage;
- Debt bondage; or
- Slavery.

INTRODUCTION

Human trafficking victims are often reluctant to report their victimization to law enforcement due to their nationality, cultural background, immigration status, and fear of removal from the United States.

Congress enacted the Trafficking Victims Protection Act (TVPA), part of the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000 to protect victims of trafficking. Recognizing the need for better protections for victims of trafficking, the TVPA created specific immigration benefits for this population, including T nonimmigrant status (also known as the “T visa”). The TVPA was also enacted to strengthen the ability of law enforcement agencies to investigate and prosecute serious crimes, including trafficking in persons, by building trust between law enforcement and immigrant communities.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) is the federal agency within the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) that adjudicates immigration and citizenship benefit requests. USCIS has sole jurisdiction to determine who is eligible for a T visa. Law enforcement agencies, also known as certifying agencies, can play an important role by submitting a declaration to support victims of human trafficking. The declaration is an optional form of evidence in the T visa application process. This guide provides information on the following topics:

- The T visa requirements;
- The role of Form I-914 Supplement B, Declaration of Law Enforcement Officer for Victim of Trafficking in Persons (Form I- 914B);
- Best practices for certifying agencies;
- Responses to frequently asked questions; and
- Additional resources for certifying agencies and officials.

IN THIS GUIDE

A brief overview of the T visa program, law enforcement agency roles and responsibilities, and what you need to know before during, and after signing the declaration

Resources to support you, including contact information, best practices, and links to additional information

Answers to frequently asked questions from law enforcement about the declaration process

DID YOU KNOW?

- Ⓞ There are 5,000 visas available for eligible victims of trafficking each fiscal year, but the cap has never been reached.¹
- Ⓞ A Law Enforcement Agency includes any agency that has the responsibility and authority to detect, investigate, and/or prosecute human trafficking.²

1. INA § 214(o)(2); 8 U.S.C. § 1184(o)(2); 8 CFR 214.11(j).

2. 8 CFR 214.11(a).

OVERVIEW

The T visa was designed with the dual purpose of stabilizing trafficking victims and promoting cooperation between law enforcement and trafficking victims. The T visa encourages human trafficking victims to report their victimization to law enforcement and enables victims to participate in the detection, investigation or prosecution of the crimes committed against them, even if they lack lawful immigration status.

T visas are a useful tool for law enforcement agencies to combat human trafficking, and a means for victims of human trafficking to rebuild their lives.

Once granted a T visa, eligible victims of human trafficking may:

- Live and work in the U.S. for a period of 4 years;
- Access certain federal benefits and services;³
- Apply for certain qualifying family members to receive T visas; and
- Apply for lawful permanent residency (also known as a Green Card) if eligible.

Roles and Responsibilities

LAW ENFORCEMENT

- Identifies victims of human trafficking
- Detects, investigates, and/or prosecutes the crime of human trafficking.
- Completes Form I-914B and confirms how the victim complied with reasonable requests for assistance or explains why the victim qualifies for an exception.

VICTIM

- Complies with reasonable requests for assistance from law enforcement into the detection, investigation, or prosecution⁴ of human trafficking or qualifies for an exception.
- Completes and submits Form I-914, Application for T Nonimmigrant Status.
- Submits Form I-914B as part of their T visa filing to USCIS.

USCIS

- Determines whether the applicant is eligible for T nonimmigrant status. Requests additional information from the applicant and law enforcement as necessary to make an eligibility determination.
- Grants T nonimmigrant status and extensions of status, and issues work permits and Green Cards to victims of trafficking.

3. Such benefits may include assistance with housing, medical services, and employment. For a complete list, please refer to <https://www.acf.hhs.gov/otip/victim-assistance/services-available-to-victims-of-trafficking>.

4. THE TERM “INVESTIGATION OR PROSECUTION” ENCOMPASSES ALL STAGES OF THE JUDICIAL PROCESS: DETECTION, INVESTIGATION, PROSECUTION, CONVICTION, AND SENTENCING.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

USCIS may find an applicant eligible for a T visa if the individual:

Is the victim of a severe form of trafficking in persons

Is physically present in the United States⁵, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands or at a U.S. port of entry on account of trafficking.

Would suffer extreme hardship involving unusual and severe harm if removed from the U.S.

Has complied with any reasonable request from a law enforcement agency for assistance in the investigation or prosecution of human trafficking or qualifies for an exception.

Is admissible to the United States based on a review of criminal history, immigration violations, and other factors, or is eligible for a waiver of applicable grounds of inadmissibility.

This guide focuses on the eligibility requirements highlighted in blue, as the law enforcement declaration focuses on these areas.

Victim of A Severe Form of Trafficking in Persons

In order to establish eligibility for a T visa, the applicant must demonstrate that they are the victim of a “severe form of trafficking in persons,”⁶ a term defined in Federal statute and in DHS regulations. A severe form of trafficking in persons by definition includes the following forms of trafficking and does not require any separate analysis of the severity of the trafficking:

Sex trafficking⁷, which is defined as the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, obtaining, patronizing, or soliciting of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act through the use of force, fraud, or coercion. Anyone under the age of 18 who is induced into commercial sex is a victim of sex trafficking under U.S. law, regardless of whether there is force, fraud or coercion because minors are legally incapable of consenting to commercial sex acts.

Forced labor⁸ or labor trafficking, which is defined as the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for labor or services through the use of force, fraud, or coercion for the purpose of subjection to involuntary servitude, peonage, debt bondage, or slavery.

- Involuntary servitude includes a condition of servitude induced by means of any scheme, plan, or pattern intended to cause a person to believe that, if the person did not enter into or continue in such condition, that person or another person would suffer serious harm or physical restraint, or a condition of servitude induced by the abuse or threatened abuse of the legal process.⁹
- Debt bondage means the status or condition of a debtor arising from a pledge by the debtor of his or her personal services or of those of a person under his or her control as a security for debt, if the value of those services as reasonably assessed is not applied toward the liquidation of the debt or the length and nature of those services are not respectively limited and defined.¹⁰

5. The United States includes the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands. See INA 101(a)(38). See 8 CFR 214.11(a).

6. See 8 CFR 214.11\(a\).

7. See 8 CFR 214.11\(a\).

8. Forced labor is commonly referred to as labor trafficking. See 8 CFR 214.11\(a\).

9. See 8 CFR 214.11\(a\).

10. 8 CFR 214.11(a).

- Peonage means a status or condition of involuntary servitude based upon real or alleged indebtedness.¹¹
- Slavery is the state of being held under the complete and total ownership or control of another individual or entity and deprived of liberty, autonomy, and independence for the purpose of subjecting the victim to forced labor or services.

Physically Present in the United States on Account of Trafficking

Law enforcement is not responsible for determining whether the applicant is physically present in the United States on account of trafficking. However, in some circumstances, victims may ask law enforcement to provide evidence of their physical presence in the United States. The victim must demonstrate to USCIS that they are in the United States on account of trafficking at the time of applying for the T visa. The requirement to demonstrate physical presence in the United States can be satisfied if the victim:

- Is present in the United States because the victim is currently being subjected to a severe form of trafficking in persons;
- Was liberated from a severe form of trafficking in persons by a law enforcement agency;
- Escaped a severe form of trafficking in persons before a law enforcement agency was involved;
- Was subject to a severe form of trafficking in persons at some point in the past and the victim's continuing presence in the United States is directly related to the original trafficking in persons; or
- Is present on account of having been allowed entry into the United States for participation in investigative or judicial processes associated with an act or perpetrator of trafficking.

Extreme Hardship if Removed from the United States

The victim must establish that they would experience extreme hardship, involving unusual and severe harm, if they were removed from the United States. Law enforcement is not responsible for determining if the applicant would experience extreme hardship.

USCIS considers a variety of factors when evaluating extreme hardship, including the victimization the applicant has suffered, the impact of the loss of access to U.S. criminal justice system, and the political and economic conditions in the country of return. The outcome of the analysis will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case.

11. 8 CFR 214.11(a).

COMPLIANCE WITH REASONABLE REQUEST FROM LAW ENFORCEMENT

The victim is generally responsible for complying with reasonable requests for assistance related to the detection, investigation, or prosecution of the trafficking. For example, aiding in the detection of trafficking by reporting the victimization is sufficient to satisfy the requirement to assist law enforcement. There are two occasions when a victim may be eligible for a T visa even if the victim does not report the trafficking to or assist law enforcement: (1) if the victim was under the age of 18 at the time of victimization or (2) if the victim has experienced physical or psychological trauma that prevents them from complying with a reasonable request.

USCIS will assess the evidence provided by the applicant to determine whether the individual has complied with reasonable requests for assistance. USCIS will consider multiple factors and the totality of circumstances when determining whether a request was “reasonable.”

One of the primary ways that a victim may demonstrate cooperation with reasonable requests from law enforcement is by providing the law enforcement declaration, Form I-914B, as part of the victim’s T visa application. Any law enforcement agency that has the responsibility and authority for the detection, investigation, and/or prosecution of severe forms of trafficking in persons, including Federal, State, local or tribal law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, judges, labor agencies and children’s protective services agencies, can complete Form I-914B.

Law enforcement agencies are uniquely positioned to assess a victim’s credibility, as they have firsthand knowledge of the investigation or prosecution into the acts of trafficking. Therefore, law enforcement agencies can verify whether the reported crime occurred and confirm a victim’s cooperation. Victims (or their attorneys or representatives) may approach you to request a signed declaration. The Form I-914B is not required to establish eligibility for a T visa, but it provides useful information for USCIS to consider when determining a victim’s eligibility.

Your agency may choose to sign Form I-914B even if the victim has not responded to reasonable requests for assistance. Signing Form I-914B in these circumstances may help to stabilize the victim, and thereby strengthen your ability to investigate or prosecute the acts of trafficking in the future. In these instances, it is helpful to provide a detailed description of any attempts made to obtain victim assistance, the results of those attempts, and any physical or psychological trauma that you are aware of that might prevent complying with a reasonable request.

After the T visa application has been approved, a victim’s refusal to comply with your reasonable requests for assistance in the investigation or prosecution may impact the victim’s ability to become a permanent resident and/or may result in revocation of the T visa.

Part D. Cooperation of Victim (Attach additional sheets, if necessary)

The applicant:

- Has complied with requests for assistance in the investigation/prosecution of the crime of trafficking. (Explain below.)
- Has failed to comply with requests to assist in the investigation/prosecution of the crime of trafficking. (Explain below.)
- Has not been requested to assist in the investigation/prosecution of any crime of trafficking.
- Has not yet attained the age of 18.
- Other, specify on attached additional sheets.

ADMISSIBILITY

The victim must demonstrate to USCIS that they are admissible to the United States. Law enforcement is not responsible for making this determination. USCIS determines admissibility based on a victim’s immigration and criminal history. Certain inadmissibility grounds may be waived, including criminal grounds that are directly tied to the acts of trafficking. Victims of severe forms of trafficking should not be inappropriately incarcerated, fined, or otherwise penalized solely for unlawful acts committed as a direct result of being trafficked, such as using false documents, entering the country without documentation, or working without documentation.¹² Consequently, USCIS considers the relationship between a victim’s criminal history and the trafficking they have experienced.

12. Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000, Public Law No. 106-386, Section 102(19), (October 28, 2000).

CERTIFICATION TIPS

Completing Form I-914B does not automatically confer eligibility for a T visa. USCIS will carefully evaluate all evidence provided in a T visa application, including Form I-914B, if submitted, and any attached documents, and make a determination.

FORM I-914B

- Is officially known as USCIS Form I-914, Supplement B, Declaration of Law Enforcement Officer for Victim in Trafficking of Persons.
 - May also be referred to as a certification or declaration.
 - Confirms law enforcement’s view that the applicant is a trafficking victim.
 - Provides valuable evidence of the victim’s cooperation but is not required to establish eligibility for a T visa.
 - Is completed as part of a victim-centered approach to combat human trafficking.
- Ⓞ No Specific Stage Necessary: There is no requirement that the trafficking case reach a specific stage of the criminal process for you to sign the Form I-914B. Charges do not have to be filed, nor does an investigation need to be open at the time a certification is signed. Even if an investigation occurs or charges are filed, the investigation or charges do not have to relate directly to the acts of trafficking and may include other criminal activity.
 - Ⓞ Officials With Signing Authority: The supervising official responsible for the detection, investigation, or prosecution of severe forms of trafficking in persons at your law enforcement agency must sign Form I-914B. You are the supervising official of your agency if you are in a supervisory role and your agency has designated you a “supervising official.” There is also an area designated on the declaration for the signature of a law enforcement officer who is directly familiar with the case.
 - Ⓞ Answer All Questions on Form I-914B: USCIS encourages you to answer all Form I-914B questions factually and as fully as possible to assist in determining the applicant’s eligibility for the T visa.
 - Ⓞ Timing: The applicant should submit Form I-914B with their initial T visa filing. T visa declarations do not expire.

TOP FIVE

THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT FORM I-914B

1 Provides Valuable Evidence for Victims

By completing and signing the declaration, you, as the certifying agency, are providing valuable evidence that may help the victim obtain a T visa. While the declaration is not required evidence for the victim, it is very useful to USCIS while evaluating the applicant's eligibility for the T visa.

2 Signing Means Attesting to the Facts

By signing the declaration, you are stating:

- To the best of your knowledge, the individual is a victim of human trafficking.
- The victim has complied with reasonable requests to assist law enforcement (or is exempt due to age or trauma).
- The information listed on the declaration is accurate to the best of your knowledge.
- You have direct knowledge of the information listed (or have reviewed relevant records).

Note: Signing Form I-914B does not confer a T visa. USCIS, not law enforcement, makes a determination on the victim's eligibility for immigration benefits.

3 Who Completes the Form Matters

The certifying official should complete Form I-914B. Only sign if you are (1) a supervisory official responsible for the detection, investigation, or prosecution of human trafficking or (2) a law enforcement officer with direct knowledge of the case.

Note: Federal, state, local, tribal, or territorial judges also have authority to sign the Form I-914B.

4 Investigation and Prosecution is Not Required

Whether an act of trafficking is formally investigated or prosecuted depends on many factors outside of the victim's control. If your agency has identified an individual as a victim of trafficking, you can choose to complete and sign the Form I-914B. There is no requirement that an investigation or prosecution be initiated or completed after the victim reports the trafficking and makes themselves available to comply with reasonable requests for assistance.

5 Signing Form I-914B is Discretionary

Signing Form I-914B may strengthen your certifying agency's ability to detect, investigate, and prosecute trafficking crimes. However, there is no obligation under federal law to complete and sign Form I-914B. Under federal law, your certifying agency has discretion over whether to complete a declaration.

BEST PRACTICES

FOR CERTIFYING AGENCIES AND OFFICIALS

PROVIDE SPECIFIC DETAILS

USCIS seriously considers the information you provide on Form I-914B. Please be as specific and detailed as possible when completing the form.

Note: Completing Form I-914B does not automatically confer a T visa. USCIS will assess the applicant's eligibility by evaluating the evidence provided by the victim, including the information you provide on Form I-914B as well as supplemental evidence provided by the victim.

VERIFY ALL INFORMATION ON THE FORM PRIOR TO SIGNING

Your agency should fully complete the declaration. Prior to signing, please ensure that all information is accurate.

ATTACH ADDITIONAL RELEVANT DOCUMENTS – AND NOTE THIS ON FORM I-914 B

If available, provide additional relevant documents (for example statements, photos, etc.) along with the declaration. Please note on Form I-914B if your agency has attached additional documents in case the documents are accidentally separated from Form I-914B.

ESTABLISH AND PERIODICALLY UPDATE LOCAL PROCEDURES AND POLICIES

Certifying agencies are not required to have an internal policy or procedure before they can sign a T visa declaration. However, USCIS encourages certifying agencies to develop a policy and to train relevant personnel on the policy to promote consistency and transparency and to improve the quality of the declaration. Some suggested topics to cover in your internal policy include:

- Developing a mechanism to track declaration requests and create a historical record of declarations provided; and
- Outlining expectations regarding attaching relevant police reports and other documentation regarding the victimization and the victim to Form I-914B.

PROVIDE AN ORIGINAL INK SIGNATURE

You must provide an original signature on Form I-914B in any ink color for verification purposes. USCIS cannot accept photocopies, faxes, or scans of Form I-914B.

RETURN THE FORM I-914B TO THE VICTIM (OR THE VICTIM'S ATTORNEY OR REPRESENTATIVE)

You should not send the signed declaration directly to USCIS. If the victim is including a signed Form I-914B, the victim must send it to USCIS with the complete Form I-914 application.

ANSWERS

TO QUESTIONS FREQUENTLY ASKED BY CERTIFYING OFFICIALS

WHO DECIDES WHETHER A VICTIM SHOULD APPLY FOR A T VISA?

The victim, who may sometimes be assisted by an attorney or victim service provider, should make that decision.

How does USCIS determine whether the applicant is eligible for the T visa?

USCIS examines the totality of the evidence in each individual case. In addition to determining whether the applicant has satisfied the requirements for the T visa, and is otherwise admissible to the U.S., USCIS conducts a full background check and reviews the signed Form I-914B when submitted.

CAN I CERTIFY FORM I-914B IF A PROSECUTION HAS NOT OCCURRED?

Yes. The decision to complete Form I-914B is within your agency's discretion. There is no requirement that an investigation or prosecution be initiated or completed after the victim has reported the trafficking and has been available for reasonable requests for assistance (or qualifies for an exception due to age or exemption due to trauma). You can sign a Form I-914B regardless of the stage of the investigation or prosecution. Charges do not have to be filed, nor does an investigation need to be open at the time a certification is signed.

CAN I CERTIFY A FORM FOR A TRAFFICKING VICTIM WHO ASSISTED MY LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCY IF I AM NOT SURE THE INDIVIDUAL IS ELIGIBLE FOR THE T VISA?

Yes, it is consistent with a victim-centered approach for federal, state, tribal, territorial, and local law enforcement to sign the T visa declaration when a victim who is assisting or assisted in the investigation or prosecution of a trafficker makes a request. USCIS, not law enforcement, must determine the applicant's eligibility for T nonimmigrant status. While providing a certification is in the discretion of the LEA under federal law, certifying agencies may be subject to state and local policies that cover the certification process, depending on the specific jurisdiction.

CAN I CERTIFY A FORM FOR A TRAFFICKING VICTIM WHO IS NO LONGER IN THE U.S.?

Yes, the decision to certify is within the certifying agency's discretion. USCIS will determine whether the victim meets the physical presence requirement. While the T visa requires that a victim be in the U.S. on account of the severe form of human trafficking, victims who have left the U.S. may be allowed to re-enter to assist with an investigation or prosecution. Victims who have left the U.S. may also be eligible for a U visa, as trafficking is a qualifying criminal activity in the U visa program.

CAN I APPLY FOR CONTINUED PRESENCE FOR THE VICTIM IF THEY ALSO HAVE A PENDING T VISA APPLICATION?

Yes. Filing for Continued Presence (CP) utilizes the victim-centered approach and allows for the support and stabilization of the victim while their I-914 is being processed by USCIS. CP also helps build rapport and establish trust between you and the victim. See the DHS Center for Countering Human Trafficking Continued Presence Resource Guide and Continued Presence Toolkit or more information on submitting Continued Presence requests for trafficking victims.

WHAT SHOULD I DO IF THE VICTIM IS IN REMOVAL PROCEEDINGS BUT WANTS TO FILE A T VISA?

Victims may choose to apply for immigration benefits, including the T visa, even while they are in immigration court proceedings. The fact that the victim is in removal proceedings in immigration court does not impact your ability to complete and sign the Form I-914B. Certifying officials may also coordinate with government officials to request an expedited adjudication of the T visa application.

WHY IS A VICTIM REQUESTING ANOTHER DECLARATION WHEN MY AGENCY PREVIOUSLY PROVIDED ONE?

There are many circumstances in which a victim may request another Form I-914B. For example, an applicant may need an updated declaration after receiving a request for more evidence from USCIS. In addition, a victim may request another declaration to demonstrate they have complied with reasonable requests for assistance from law enforcement when applying for lawful permanent resident status (also known as a Green Card).

CAN I COMPLETE A CERTIFICATION IF THE TRAFFICKING OCCURRED OUTSIDE THE JURISDICTION MY LEA OPERATES IN?

Yes. An LEA may choose to complete the certification if the victim assisted in the LEA's detection, investigation or prosecution of acts of trafficking, regardless of where the victimization occurred. Victims may choose to report the trafficking outside of the jurisdiction where it occurred for a variety of reasons, including traumatization, relocation to escape the trafficker, fear or lack of experience with local law enforcement, or referral from other LEAs. There is no requirement that your LEA be able to prosecute the acts of trafficking in order to complete the Form I-914B. Completing the certification is a discretionary decision.

HOW DO I TERMINATE OR REVOKE A DECLARATION?

If a certifying official discovers information regarding a victim, crime, or declaration that the agency believes USCIS should be aware of, or if the official wishes to withdraw the certification, the official should contact USCIS by emailing LawEnforcement_UTVAWA.VSC@uscis.dhs.gov.

HOW DOES USCIS CONSIDER CRIMINAL HISTORY WHEN DETERMINING ELIGIBILITY FOR A T VISA?

The fact that a victim has a criminal history does not automatically preclude approval of an application for T nonimmigrant status.

USCIS reviews all available information concerning arrests, convictions, immigration violations, public safety issues, and national security concerns during the adjudication process. USCIS also considers whether there is a nexus between an applicant's criminal behavior and their victimization. USCIS also carefully considers any evidence of rehabilitation that the applicant provides with their T visa application.

If you, the certifying official, believe USCIS should know something particular about a victim's criminal history, you should include this information on the declaration or as an attachment.

CAN I RUN CHECKS (SUCH AS NATIONAL CRIME INFORMATION CENTER (NCIC)) ON INDIVIDUALS ASKING FOR A DECLARATION?

Yes, LEAs may provide USCIS with any information regarding an individual's background and criminal history. USCIS also conducts background checks on the applicant prior to adjudication of the T visa. USCIS will examine any criminality independently when assessing the applicant's admissibility and may in its discretion waive inadmissibility grounds related to criminal history.

ADDITIONAL TOOLS

Continued Presence (CP) and Parole are two important tools law enforcement agencies can use to provide an immediate, temporary means for victims of trafficking to stay in the United States lawfully during the course of an investigation.

CONTINUED PRESENCE¹³

CP is a temporary immigration designation available to individuals who are identified by law enforcement as victims of human trafficking who may be potential witnesses in an investigation or prosecution. CP is also available to victims who have filed civil actions under 18 U.S.C. § 1595. CP is authorized by the DHS Center for Countering Human Trafficking (CCHT) and must be sponsored by a federal law enforcement agent. State, local, tribal, and territorial law enforcement officials who would like to request CP for human trafficking victims are encouraged to work with the local Homeland Security Investigations office in their area.

An application for CP should be initiated immediately upon identification of a victim of human trafficking. CP allows victims of human trafficking to remain in the United States during an ongoing investigation or prosecution of human trafficking-related crimes committed against them.

CP is initially granted for two years and may be renewed in up to two-year increments. Recipients of CP also receive work authorization and federal benefits and services¹⁴ through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Refugee Resettlement. CP is intended to help alleviate victims' concerns regarding removal from the United States and provide economic support so that victims are better able to cooperate with law enforcement throughout the investigation and potential prosecution. CP is a tool to stabilize victims in the immediate aftermath of victim identification, and should be pursued as soon as possible to provide short term relief. Victims of trafficking who receive CP may also qualify for the T visa. As such, CP should not be pursued in lieu of the T visa, which is a longer-term immigration benefit.

CP is available to all trafficking victims, even if a human trafficking violation is not charged, charges are never brought, or the victim is not cooperating in a law enforcement investigation. CP allows for a victim-centered approach where law enforcement recognizes that a victim's trauma history affects their response to the criminal justice process and seeks to avoid re-traumatization. This includes victim-centered practices that prioritize the survivor's feelings of safety, choice, and control.

PAROLE¹⁵

Parole may be granted by DHS to temporarily permit an otherwise inadmissible individual to enter the U.S. to serve as a witness, defendant, or cooperating source for law enforcement. DHS grants parole on a case-by-case basis and for the minimum period required to accomplish the requested purpose. For example, if a trial is 3 months long, parole may be granted for 3 months. If necessary, in extremely limited cases, DHS may decide to parole the individual's immediate family members. Parole is a tool to temporarily permit individuals entry to the U.S., but is not a replacement for the T visa, which provides nonimmigrant status to victims of trafficking and a path to permanent immigration status.

APPENDIX A

T VISA PROCESS

The graphic below outlines the general process to seek a T visa, from the victim's initial encounter with law enforcement to USCIS' final determination.

The time between a victim's initial filing of the T visa application and USCIS' final adjudication of the application (resulting in either an approval or denial) can vary over time due to several factors, including USCIS staffing levels, resource availability, and the number and complexity of applications.

By law, USCIS cannot provide T nonimmigrant status to more than 5,000 principal victims per year. This annual cap does not include visas issued to eligible relatives of the victim. The T visa cap has never been reached in the history of the program.

Information about T visa applicants is protected by specific privacy and confidentiality laws.¹⁶

A T nonimmigrant may apply for lawful permanent residence (also known as a Green Card) after three years of continuous physical presence in the U.S. or after continuous physical presence in the U.S. during the investigation or prosecution which is now complete, whichever occurs earlier.¹⁷

There is no limit on the number of T visa-based Green Cards that USCIS may issue annually.

Cooperation STEP 1	Filing STEP 2	Approval STEP 3	Green Card STEP 4
Victim assists law enforcement in the detection, investigation, and/or prosecution of a trafficking crime, unless an exception or exemption applies.	Victim applies for T visa with USCIS, potentially including law enforcement declaration in the application.	USCIS reviews the T visa application and requests additional evidence as needed.	After at least 3 years in T status or once the investigation or prosecution is concluded, victim applies to become lawful permanent resident
Victim may request law enforcement declaration via Form I-914, Supplement B; law enforcement decides whether to sign.		If eligible, USCIS approves victim's T visa.	If eligible, USCIS approves victim's application for permanent residency.

APPENDIX B

QUALIFYING RELATIVES

FAMILY MEMBERS

Certain qualifying family members of the principal victim may also be eligible for a T Visa. If the principal applicant is under the age of 21 years old, qualifying relatives include:

- the principal's spouse;
- the principal's unmarried child(ren);
- the principal's parent(s); and
- the principal's unmarried siblings under the age of 18 years.

If the principal applicant is over the age of 21 years old, qualifying relatives include:

- the principal's spouse; and
- the principal's unmarried child(ren)

In certain circumstances, the following relatives may be eligible for a T visa if they are in present danger of retaliation as a result of the principal applicant's escape from trafficking or cooperation with law enforcement:

- the principal's grandchild;
- the principal's spouse's child (if not otherwise already eligible as the principal's child) and
- the principal's sibling (if not otherwise already eligible, such as those over the age of 18 or married), and the principal's niece or nephew.

Family members seeking derivative T visas are subject to the same criminal background review, fingerprint checks, and immigration status checks as the principal applicant. Therefore, USCIS may deny a derivative's case based on the derivative's adverse criminal or immigration background, even if the principal applicant's filing is approved.
