

Request for Case Assistance

PLEASE READ THESE INSTRUCTIONS FIRST

Background

Congress established the Office of the Citizenship and Immigration Services Ombudsman (CIS Ombudsman) as an external ombudsman to assist individuals and employers unable to resolve issues directly with U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). The CIS Ombudsman is an independent office within the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS), and not part of USCIS.

To receive assistance with an issue regarding an application or petition with USCIS, submit this form to the CIS Ombudsman using the instructions below.

Seek Help from USCIS First

You must try to resolve your issue directly with USCIS first before filing DHS Form 7001. Go to www.dhs.gov/case-assistance for ways to seek help from USCIS. If you have tried to address your issue directly with USCIS and still need to request case assistance from the CIS Ombudsman, you may submit DHS Form 7001 and describe in the first section below what actions you have taken to resolve your issue with USCIS. The CIS Ombudsman will allow exceptions to this requirement only in very limited circumstances.

Please review the CIS Ombudsman web pages for current information on when we can and cannot help. For example, with few exceptions, the CIS Ombudsman cannot help if:

- Your case is within published processing times <https://egov.uscis.gov/processing-times>, unless there is a statutory or regulatory processing time requirement.
- There is no published processing time for the form type, and you have not waited at least six months since filing.
- USCIS has denied an expedite request (www.uscis.gov/forms/filing-guidance/how-to-make-an-expedite-request).
- You are seeking legal advice.
- You are seeking assistance with an issue that does not involve USCIS.
- You are seeking to change a decision by USCIS, unless the decision is based on a clear error.
- It has been less than 30 calendar days since your congressional representative made an inquiry to USCIS.

Who May Prepare and Submit a Request for Case Assistance?

- Applicants and petitioners, as well as attorneys and accredited representatives, may submit a request.
 - Applicant is the individual who signs and applies for an immigration benefit.
 - Petitioner is an employer or individual who files a petition on behalf of a non-U.S. citizen.
 - Beneficiary is the non-U.S. citizen for whom a petition is submitted by an individual or employer.
 - Attorney is an individual authorized to practice law and is a member of the bar in good standing.
 - Accredited Representative is a member of a qualified nonprofit religious, charitable, social service, or similar organization.
- We cannot assist the beneficiary of a petition unless the petitioner's consent is provided. There are some circumstances where an applicant also needs a petitioner's consent, such as with multiple applications/petitions filed together where the underlying petition has not yet been approved. This is true for both USCIS and the CIS Ombudsman.
 - For example, if an underlying immigrant visa petition (e.g., Form I-130 or I-140) is not yet approved, the petitioner's consent is required to request information about the immigrant visa petition filed together with it (e.g., Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status).
- If you are a family member, congressional representative, or advocate, you must include written consent with a signature from the applicant or petitioner authorizing the CIS Ombudsman to communicate with you about the status of their case.
- If you are seeking our help with a T/U/VAWA related matter without the assistance of a legal representative, the CIS Ombudsman cannot communicate with you by phone or email. We will send correspondence only to the address listed in the USCIS database as required by law, even if you provide a different address on your DHS Form 7001.
- The CIS Ombudsman requires consent from each applicant and petitioner.
