Good morning Nina,
Hope you're doing ok -- I imagine the last few days have likely been rough.
We'd love to have you back on The NewsWorthy to talk about the Disinformation Governance Board. I understand there has been significant confusion about the board circulating on other media outlets. We'd love to help clear up that confusion, in a non-biased way, and hear directly from you about what the board was created to do and how exactly you'll go about doing it. We will ask about some of the negative responses that have been kicked up in the last few days (critics making comparisons to Orwell's 1984, for example), and ask for your reaction. I want to stress that as an independent news outlet, our goal is to always present the facts without slant. I think hearing from you directly is the best way to get the facts about the board straight. If you're interested in chatting with host (b)(6), tomorrow (Wednesday) would be ideal. We could also make Thursday work, or even this afternoon if that works better for you. I'll go ahead and share the link to (b)(6) calendar. Feel free to book a time if that's easiest, or I'm happy to coordinate a time directly via email. We would run the interview this Saturday as our Special Edition.
Thank you, Nina!

Good morning Ms. Furst,

I hope this message finds you well on a Friday!

We have not met yet but I just joined DHS/PLCY last month and I'm reaching out because I noticed you were tapped to review the MDM content below earlier this week. We actually have an MDM request from the Foreign Minister of Ecuador and I'm just wondering who the POC might be for the issues highlighted below. Could you kindly advise?

MDM content is short and appears in one bullet point and a paragraph. HTH
