2018 Philadelphia Regional Seminar and Tabletop Exercise for Institutions of Higher Education

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and Drexel University invite you to participate in the Philadelphia Regional Seminar and Tabletop Exercise for Institutions of Higher Education on February 2, 2018.

This one-day event will include a tabletop exercise and an after-action review session on preparing participants to respond to a campus emergency. This year's event will focus on a hazardous material spill near campus. More detailed information on the specific topics for the tabletop exercise will be available closer to the event.

The event seeks to provide participants with insight into planning, preparedness and resilience best practices for the academic community. Because emergency planning involves a team of individuals from across an institution, we recommend a team of five to seven senior leaders representing various functions (i.e. information technology, security, leadership, public safety, student life, communications, etc.) attend from each institution. Participants also will include representatives from federal and state departments and agencies that support campus resilience.

There is no cost to attend or present at this event. Participants and presenters are responsible for their own travel, lodging and per diem expenses. Space is limited and attendees will be confirmed by DHS on a first come, first-served basis.
