2018-FEFO-00111	-	Perkins, Peter	documentation defining the characters in an NFIP policy number, what they represent, how they are generated, who/what generates them, and what they correspond to if anything. Sample NFIP policy number (301020446*). An asterisk was used to replace the last numerical digit of the sample policy number as to not portray a real policy number in this request. For reference/comparison, with Vehicle Identification Numbers (VIN), each character specifies a detail pertaining to the vehicle (manufacturer, attributes, model year, etc.). NFIP Policy numbers seem to share similar characteristics (starts with; 6004, 7405, 6010, 7805, 1640, 6003, 3010, etc.) with a trailing series of six digits. I suppose this to be values representing a "type" defined by the first four characters followed by an incremental 6 digit number.	10/20/2017

2018-FEFO-00983	-	Hopkins, Caroline	For all of these datasets my primary research is on the state of New Jersey, however if it is feasible it would be very helpful to have the datasets for the entirety of the United States. (1) Data on flood insurance claims made to the National Flood Insurance Program. I request the full history of available data for the state of New Jersey and the state of Florida. Specifically, I am looking for residential data relating to claims (number made and dollar value) to the National Flood Insurance Program by street address (parcel id or other identifier) for 1996-2017. If street address is not releasable, then a generic identifier that allows me to track a home across time is fine. Ideally I would still have some general information about where the house is located (perhaps at the zipcode or municipality level). (2) Historical data on flood incidents for the United States. Specifically, I am interested in flood history data for the United States from 1996 - 2017. I've used the flood hazard declaration data and the public assistance data, but I'm interested (if it is available) in maps of floods that have occurred in the United States. By floods I mean any flood event significant enough to require claims, flood hazard declarations, or FEMA public assistance. If maps are not available then I am interested in the most granular level of data you have for indications of flood. For example the hazard declaration data is at the county level. Do you have anything at the municipality level? (3) Data on policy enrollment in the National Flood Insurance Program at the observational level of street address or some other house identifier (for example parcel id). I am requesting the full history of data you have available for the state of New Jersey As for policy information, I would like to know whether or not a policy was held by a household in a year-month from 1996-2017. If the same privacy concerns exist as for the claims database and you cannot provide that at the street address level, then I would prefer if possible to have a generic identifier that allows me to track a home across time and if possible	7/25/2018

2018-FEFO-01016	PROEDGE GROUP	Lee, Barbara	information from FEMA or any other government entity that can educate me on the status of St. Thomas after last year's hurricanes as it may apply to some of their insureds – specifically: 1. How much of the electric infrastructure was damaged? When was power restored to St. Thomas? Telephone and Internet service? 2. Was the water source affected? If so, when was it restored for public use? 3. Are there some aerials or other pictorial or other materials available to show the level and breadth of damage to St. Thomas, its hospital and the surrounding neighborhood? If so, how can I get a copy of same? 4. We understand Hurricane Irma hit St. Thomas about September 6th with Hurricane Maria following on September 19th. Is this accurate? 5. Are there some reports that detail the damage to St. Thomas as a result of each of these events? How can I get a copy of same? 6. We have read that cruise ships came to St. Thomas to remove residents from the island. – as many as 96% of the population! Is that accurate? 7. We also understand that there is only one hospital on the island and that it was heavily damaged and lost two wings including the cancer wing.. Do you have any official/public records as to these stories? And if so, how can I get a copy of same? 8. When did St. Thomas come under a “state of emergency” and when was it lifted? What does a “state of emergency” entail? 9. While the hospital was damaged from the storms, was there still U.S. postal services? If not, when was it suspended? When was it restored? 10. Were medical supplies made available to the population through hospitals or physicians? Were medical supplies limited? If so, which supplies were limited and why? 11. We understand some patients were transported to St. Croix, which did not suffer as much damage. What percentage or number of patients were transported – by U.S. Govt or other personnel? 12. Did the U.S. Government provide medical assistance to the general population at St. Thomas? What about the medical personnel on the island – did they participate or work with U.S.	9/17/2018

2018-FEFO-01084	Creative Solutions	Werick, William	We're trying to document flood damages in Vermont and New York from high Lake Champlain levels between April 13, 2011 and June 19, 2011. We believe these are captured in three disaster declarations, DR4001, DR1995, and DR4043. We're looking for information in three categories: • Public Assistance Grant Project Worksheets - Detailed information on costs to restore and repair the public infrastructure to its original state after the 2011 floods. This includes funds to mitigate damage from future disasters. For example, if a culvert was washed out during the 2011 flooding, did FEMA pay to install a larger culvert to withstand higher discharges? • Individual Assistance Grants - Information related to damages to private property, aggregated to census tract or, if that does not protect individual data, zip code. • NFIP Claims Data Detailed damage profiles for individuals properties insured under the federal flood insurance program (NFIP). We understand that sensitive information such as policy numbers, names, and physical addresses would be redacted from these data, but if they can be grouped by census tract or zip code, as discussed above, the location information should help us validate our models.	8/23/2018
