2018-IAFO-00245	DHS I&A (B)(6)	Private Individual	the name of every single person sent to Honduras as part of the Joint Task Force as I want information which is probably not on your offices concerning persecution of Germans in Honduras, how much they lost, whether they were guilty or not to go to some kind of concentration camp at Ellis Island, also about Oswaldo López Arellano was a military and member of the Honduran national party. Rafael Leonardo callejas said on more than one occasion that this corrupt dictator was the best president of Honduras and the person he most admired, basically in line with a country study available through the Library of Congress website. Now, I frequently read stuff like stories of a spectacular suicide on Park Avenue in New York in February 1975 that ended the political career of Nationalist General Oswaldo Lopez Arellano, who died at the age of 88 years. Writing this in this war sounds like a sensationalist story when Eli Black, president of United Brands, jumped to his death from the 44th floor of the Pan American building, arguably consolidating Honduras' international reputation as the original banana republic and I cannot ignore O'Henry here, the one that coined the term and so, I cannot completely ignore O'Henry's fiction. It is said that Lopez Arellano, in his capacity as Honduran dictator, had been bribed by United Brands, whose vast banana enclave was the heart of the Honduran economy, to reduce the export tax on bananas but I find the same claim, for instance, here http://www.auraminerals.com/Operations/San-Andres/default.aspx . And so, a typical Latin American military officer of the mid-twentieth century, trained by the United States Lopez Arellano had been at that stage an important player in three military coups, two of which had left him as de facto president. In 1939, Lopez Arellano joined the machine gun corps, and three years later he won a scholarship to train in Arizona as a military pilot. In the mid-1950s, he was a senior air force officer and was ready to start his political career. His opportunity came in 1956, when he participated in the overthrow of another dictator, Julio Lozano, and was appointed Minister of Defense and Chief of the Armed Forces. In theory, the goal of the new military authorities was to oversee a transition to an elected civilian government, your discourse. But Lopez Arellano intervened twice, in 1963 and again in 1971, first to prevent the power from falling into the hands of the liberal party politicians, whom he considered dangerous radicals, and then to overthrow a conservative who, according to him, was inept. . Raising the banner of submission to foreign capital allowed him to obtain the support of Washington. During his first government, he suspended constitutional guarantees, closed Parliament and newspapers, and cracked down on the opposition. He also discovered the depths of military corruption. It was discovered that the Honduran army had entire units of non-existent soldiers whose payment ended up in the pockets of the officers. The nationalist general and politician made a transition in total impunity to civilian life, turning his illegally obtained profits into a good use in the banking business. He was also the main shareholder of
