VI. Litigation

- In the matter of Gonzales & Gonzales Bonds v. DHS (N.D. Cal. 11-cv-2267), plaintiff filed a complaint on May 9, 2011, alleging that U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) had improperly denied numerous FOIA requests for A-Files. Until mid-2010, the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) responded to requests from bond obligors by supplying the entire A-File. When ICE began processing bond obligor requests, ICE produced redacted copies of certain documents in the A-File, but not the entire file. ICE later changed the procedure to have ERO's Bond Management Unit respond to all bond obligor requests. On December 21, 2012, the Court ruled that the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) consent provision, when applied to make third-party FOIA requests that lack privacy waivers unperfected, violates the FOIA. The Court remanded plaintiff's FOIA requests to the agency for further consideration consistent with the Opinion.
- In the matter of National Immigration Project of the National Lawyers Guild v. U.S. Department of Homeland Security (S.D.N.Y. 11-cv-3235), plaintiffs contested the denial of their fee waiver request and claimed constructive denial with regard to a FOIA request filed on December 17, 2009 seeking records pertaining to the government's efforts to facilitate the return of individuals who prevailed in their immigration hearings but were deported before the end of their proceedings. On October 31, 2012, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) issued its twelfth and final release, consisting of 1,630 pages of responsive records. On December 26, 2012, the Court ordered ICE to submit a supplemental declaration describing, in detail, the systems searched and the search terms used.

VI. Litigation

- In the matter of Americans for Immigrant Justice v. ICE (D.D.C. 12-cv-00038), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on December 22, 2010, seeking records regarding U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) resumption of deportations to Haiti. Plaintiffs filed suit on January 10, 2012, claiming ICE improperly denied them a fee waiver, and sought an injunction for the release of records. Plaintiffs entered into a settlement agreement with ICE on June 22, 2012, in which ICE agreed to release responsive records. On February 7, 2013, pursuant to an Order of Voluntary Dismissal, the Court dismissed the case with prejudice.
- In the matter of Conti v. DHS (S.D.N.Y. 12-cv-5827), plaintiff, a former U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) employee, filed a FOIA request on April 12, 2011, seeking information relating to several investigations initiated based on complaints he made against other employees, as well as records relating to investigations of himself. Plaintiff appealed ICE's response, and the appeal was granted, with a supplemental search ordered. Plaintiff filed suit on July 30, 2012, claiming constructive denial. On February 14, 2013, ICE released its first interim response to the plaintiff, consisting of 25 pages of responsive records, including investigative records and e-mails.

VI. Litigation

- In the matter of ACLU of Massachusetts v. DOJ, et al (D. Mass. 12-cv-11776), plaintiff filed a FOIA request on July 30, 2012, seeking records regarding the use of automatic license plate readers (ALPRs). Plaintiff filed suit on September 25, 2012, claiming constructive denial of her FOIA request. On February 27, 2013, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) released its second interim response, consisting of 27 pages of responsive records to the plaintiff.
- In the matter of WECOUNT!, INC. v. DHS (D.D.C. 11-00143), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on November 19, 2009 seeking records pertaining to enforcement actions in the Miami area from November 18, 2008 through November 20, 2008. On March 8, 2010, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) withheld the records in their entirety pursuant to FOIA Exemption 7(A). Plaintiffs contested the use of this exemption as overly broad. After the appeal was denied on July 29, 2010, plaintiffs filed suit on January 21, 2011 seeking to compel the release of the records. On February 28, 2013, ICE released its twentieth interim response, consisting of 1,791 pages of investigatory records to the plaintiff.
- In the matter of National Day Laborer Organizing Network, Center for Constitutional Rights, and Immigration Justice Clinic of the Cardozo School of Law v. ICE, et al. (S.D.N.Y. 10-3488), (Secure Communities case) plaintiffs filed suit on April 27, 2010 claiming constructive denial with regard to ICE FOIA 10-2674 and that U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) improperly denied their fee waiver and request for expedited processing. On February 28, 2013, ICE and plaintiffs agreed to dismiss the case with prejudice, in a stipulation filed with the Court. In the stipulation, ICE agreed to: (1) conduct additional searches of the Office of the Director and the Office of Enforcement and Removal Operations for records relating to the use of mobile fingerprint readers by state and local law enforcement officers to access immigration databases; and (2) provide statistical data on ICE detainers.
- In the matter of Judicial Watch v. Department of Justice and Department of Homeland Security, (12-cv-01350), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on June 28, 2012, seeking records regarding the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) decision to exercise prosecutorial discretion with respect to individuals who came to the United States as children as outlined in a June 15, 2012 Memorandum by Secretary Napolitano. Plaintiffs filed suit on August 10, 2012, claiming constructive denial. On February 27, 2013, DHS released its first interim release, consisting of 175 pages of responsive records with portions of the release withheld pursuant to FOIA Exemptions 5 and 6.

VI. Litigation

- In the matter of National Day Laborer Organizing Network, Center for Constitutional Rights, and Immigration Justice Clinic of the Cardozo School of Law v. ICE, et al. (S.D.N.Y. 10-3488), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on February 3, 2010, seeking records pertaining to Secure Communities. On April 27, 2010, plaintiffs filed suit claiming constructive denial and that U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) improperly denied their fee waiver and request for expedited processing. On February 28, 2013, ICE and plaintiffs agreed to dismiss the case with prejudice, in a stipulation filed with the Court. On March 28, 2013, ICE received plaintiffs' demand letter, which insisted that plaintiffs were entitled to an exorbitant amount of fees, but indicated that they would be willing to settle the lawsuit for approximately $1.9 million in attorneys' fees, with additional costs for other fees. ICE and the U.S. Attorney's Office in the Southern District of New York are reviewing plaintiffs' demand letter.
- In the matter of American Immigration Council v. DHS (D.D.C. 12-cv-00856), plaintiff filed a FOIA request on March 14, 2011, seeking records relating to an alien's right to have counsel present during interactions with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). VI. Litigation

- In the matter of Qatanani v. DHS (D.N.J. 12-cv-00498), plaintiff filed FOIA requests with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), both dated January 10, 2012. ICE initially denied the request due to the existence of an ongoing investigation. Upon receipt of a referral of the same request from USCIS, ICE processed and released records. Plaintiff filed suit, challenging ICE's withholdings, on August 24, 2012. On May 15, 2013, ICE filed two declarations and two Vaughn indices describing ICE's withholdings with the Court.
- In the matter of National Immigrant Justice Center v. DHS (N.D. Ill. 12-cv-05358), plaintiff filed a FOIA request on April 27, 2011, seeking a copy of all Intergovernmental Service Agreements (IGSA) between U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and any state, municipal, or county entity regarding the housing of immigrant detainees. Plaintiff filed suit on July 9, 2012, claiming constructive denial. On May 16, 2013, ICE released its thirteenth interim response, consisting of 170 pages of responsive records to the plaintiff.
- In the matter of ACLU v. DHS (S.D.N.Y. 11-cv-3786), plaintiff filed a FOIA request seeking records pertaining to Post Order Custody Review (POCR). Plaintiff filed suit on June 3, 2011, claiming constructive denial. On May 17, 2013, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) submitted a declaration with the Court describing ICE's record systems, as they relate to POCR files, and how ICE's prior production content and size satisfy a stipulation between the parties.
- In the matter of National Immigration Project of the National Lawyers Guild v. DHS (S.D.N.Y. 11-cv-3235), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on December 17, 2009, seeking records pertaining to the government's efforts to facilitate the return of individuals who prevailed in their immigration hearings but were deported before the end of their proceedings. On May 20, 2013, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) released 57 pages of responsive records to the plaintiffs.

constructive denial. On May 31, 2013, ICE released its fourteenth interim response, consisting of 208 pages of responsive records to the plaintiff.

- In the matter of Georgia Latino Alliance for Human Rights (GLAHR) v. DHS (N.D. Ga. 12-cv-03702), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on April 17, 2012, seeking a copy of every single I-213 and I-247 detainer form issued in the State of Georgia, along with a copy of all communications between U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and state and local law enforcement officials in Georgia. Plaintiffs also sought a waiver of all fees, which ICE denied. Plaintiffs filed suit on October 24, 2012, after ICE denied their appeal of the search fees assessed and the denial of their request for expedited processing. On June 3, 2013, ICE entered into a stipulation with plaintiffs wherein ICE agreed to provide records and statistical information. Pursuant to that stipulation, ICE is now conducting searches of the following ICE offices: the Office of Enforcement and Removal Operations, the Office of Homeland Security Investigations, the Office of the Principal Legal Advisor, the Office of State, Local and Tribal Coordination, the Office of Public Affairs, and the Office of Professional Responsibility for statistics on ICE detainers and arrests in the Atlanta Area of Responsibility, and communications between ICE and Georgia law enforcement entities.

VI. Litigation

- In the matter of Georgia Latino Alliance for Human Rights (GLAHR) v. DHS (N.D. Ga. 12-cv-03702), plaintiffs filed a FOIA request on April 17, 2012, seeking a copy of every single I-213 and I-247 detainer form issued in the State of Georgia, along with a copy of all communications between U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and state and local law enforcement officials in Georgia. Plaintiffs also sought a waiver of all fees, which ICE denied. Plaintiffs filed suit on October 24, 2012, after ICE denied their appeal of the search fees assessed and the denial of their request for expedited processing. On June 3, 2013, ICE entered into a stipulation with plaintiffs wherein ICE agreed to provide records and statistical information. Pursuant to that stipulation agreement, on July 12, 2013, ICE released eight pages of responsive records from the Atlanta Office of the Chief Counsel to the plaintiffs.
- In the matter of Conti v. DHS (S.D.N.Y. 12-cv-5827), plaintiff, a former U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) employee, filed a FOIA request on April 12, 2011, seeking records pertaining to several investigations initiated based on complaints he made against other employees, as well as records of investigations pertaining to him. Plaintiff appealed ICE's response, and the appeal was granted, with a supplemental search ordered. Plaintiff filed suit on July 30, 2012, claiming constructive denial. On July 12, 2013, ICE made a discretionary release to the plaintiff consisting of an 18-page report of investigation located during a supplemental search of the Office of Professional Responsibility.
- In the matter of National Immigrant Justice Center v. DHS (N.D. Ill. 12-cv-05358), plaintiff filed a FOIA request on April 27, 2011, seeking a copy of all Intergovernmental Service Agreements (IGSA) between U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and any state, municipal, or county entity regarding the housing of immigrant detainees. Plaintiff filed suit on July 9, 2012, claiming constructive denial. On July 15, 2013, ICE released its sixteenth interim response, consisting of 95 pages of responsive records to the plaintiff.
