QFR Set Number: Q000740
Committee Question Number: 7
Topic: Impact to Coast Guard Operations
Question: Admiral: Thank you for coming by my office recently. I appreciate the introductory meeting we had. As you know, the Coast Guard is integral to many aspects of maritime life in Florida – port security, search and rescue, boater safety, homeland security, counter illicit trafficking for narcotics and human smuggling – and many other missions.

Recently General John Kelly, Commander of U.S. Southern Command, made news when he told the Senate Armed Services Committee that he struggles to receive the assets he needs as commander to effectively do his mission and prevent the worst kind of narcotics from entering the U.S. via our maritime border.

I am concerned that under this administration the size of the Navy’s fleet continues to dwindle. Coast Guard or other law enforcement presence on Navy ships is essential in supporting the counter illicit trafficking mission of Joint Interagency Task Force (JIATF) South, a combined military and law enforcement organization headquartered in Key West that reports to SOUTHCOM.

With the reduction of Navy ships overall and the dramatic drop in availabilities for ship deployments in the Western Hemisphere, how has the burden shifted to the Coast Guard?

How has the Coast Guard done at compensating for the loss of grey-hulled Navy ships?

What has been and will be the impact on Coast Guard operations in the Caribbean and Eastern Pacific as a result? How have operations Puerto Rico been impacted?

How have traffickers altered their patterns for illicit trafficking? What impact has this had on Coast Guard operations?

QFR Set Number: Q000740

Committee Question Number: 8

Topic: Offshore Patrol Cutter Delivery Delays

Question: I am particularly interested in the final implementation of the Offshore Patrol Cutter project that will go a long way in protecting the coasts of Florida and helping the Coast Guard more effectively do it mission by replacing the current fleet of 210 foot and 270 foot cutters. It is vital to your recapitalization plans that we get this contract right and that the best ship be delivered. I know that there are currently three companies working to complete protocols for the final contract, including Eastern Shipbuilding in Panama City, Florida. I would just like to stress the importance of the Offshore Patrol Cutter program and the recapitalization effort in general as a vital component to our national security.

With the proposed reduction in the Coast Guard's acquisition funding, and slowing of the Fast Response Cutter delivery schedule as proposed in the President's FY15 budget, coupled with an Offshore Patrol Cutter (OPC) project that won't deliver a cutter for at least another few years, how will the delayed delivery of those ships impact maritime security and Coast Guard missions closer to our ports, in the Exclusive Economic Zone?

What will the impact be on securing the vast maritime border of the United States in addition to port security?

The recapitalization levels, particularly in shipbuilding, proposed by the administration over the past few years do not appear to support what the Coast Guard needs support your statutory missions. How will recapitalization funding levels impact the Mission Needs Statement (MNS) and your current Program of Record?

The Coast Guard is a can-do organization and routinely is asked to do more with less. Are we at the point where the Coast Guard will have to do less with less?

QFR Set Number: Q000744

Committee Question Number: 15

Topic: security threat assessment

Question: My understanding is that the TSA, as part of its responsibility for transportation security, must provide certain transportation workers with a security threat assessment that may include a fingerprint-based criminal history records check. These workers may include those with certain aviation jobs, maritime jobs which require a "transportation worker identification credential" and commercial drivers who seek "hazardous materials endorsements." It is also my understanding that there are variations in the criteria for a criminal history records check that may disqualify an applicant for one position but would not disqualify an applicant for another position.

Is there an opportunity to harmonize the criteria? And if so, what benefits could stem from harmonization?

QFR Set Number: Q000744

Committee Question Number: 16

Topic: TWIC 4

Question: Congress directed TSA to reform the TWIC process to enable applicants to obtain a TWIC with a single visit to an enrollment center. It's my understanding that TSA's plans for the national implementation of the OneVisit program calls for rollout in May and completion in August.

Can you confirm that timeframe for the Committee? Based on the OneVisit pilot programs that have been completed, do you anticipate any problems that would prevent you from meeting objective? I would appreciate regular reports from you and your staff on the status of national implementation after the rollout begins in May.

Committee Question Number: 17

Topic: Tourism

Question: Tourism is an important part of Florida's economy, and my home state is a destination for millions of international travelers. One key part of their trip is the experience they encounter when travelling through our airports.

Does TSA work with tourism officials when developing screening procedures or training agents, particularly at airports with a high percentage of international travelers?

Committee Question Number: 18

Topic: TSA PreCheck program

Question: It seems that the TSA PreCheck program has benefited both TSA and the traveling public, and that those benefits would continue if more people signed up for the program. In looking at the PreCheck program, however, it seems that TSA has neither the resources nor the expertise to conduct an effective marketing campaign to expand PreCheck and help the program realize its potential. As a result, it seems to me that some sort of collaboration with the travel community to have marketing experts promote the program would be smart and effective.

Is TSA partnering with the travel community on this program, and what are your thoughts on such an effort?

Committee Question Number: 19

Topic: elderly passengers

Question: I sent you a letter in 2011 following a much publicized incident with the screening of an elderly passenger in a Florida airport. In your response, you noted on the letter that TSA is "actively exploring options for screening the elderly using more of a risk based approach." This is of particular interest to my state given the elderly population in Florida.

Can you describe what options you have explored and implemented to ensure that elderly passengers are treated with dignity and respect?

QFR Set Number: Q000744

Committee Question Number: 20

Topic: TSOs

Question: As you look to increasingly enhance the performance of TSA's front line workforce – the Transportation Security Officers, specifically – what are the critical success factors you and your management team consider need to be addressed? Additionally, in looking at the job of a TSO, there is clearly a security component to it; however, there is also an important customer service aspect that I am guessing is often overlooked. How customers are treated when in line, how long they have to wait, and how TSOs interact with passengers at the checkpoint are among the items I'd consider critical to customer service. So, can you tell me how you measure the level of customer service provided at the checkpoint, and how that factors into the overall evaluation of a TSO?
