Executive Summary

This Quarterly Report details activities of the Department of Homeland Security Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, as required by section 803 of the Implementing Recommendations of the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007, 42 U.S.C. § 2000ee-1(f). This Report includes information on CRCL’s investigative work during the third and fourth quarters of FY 2014.

The majority of complaints investigations focused on allegations made against two DHS components, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP). A significant portion of complaints received concerning ICE alleged inadequate medical and/or mental health care for detainees being held in ICE custody (outlined in the table below). CRCL utilizes contract subject matter experts in medical care detention issues to evaluate these claims and make recommendations regarding appropriate medical treatment. An increased number of the complaints concerning CBP alleged inadequate conditions of detention for juveniles in CBP custody, which is reflective of the surge in the apprehension numbers of unaccompanied alien children and family units occurring in the spring and early summer of 2014. We note that CBP has released and implemented a revised Use of Force Policy, and that complaints alleging excessive use of force by CBP officers and agents declined from the first and second quarters.

Table 1: CBP and ICE Investigations Opened

Component	Issue	Situation	Total
			1Q and 2Q	3Q and 4Q
CBP	Excessive force or inappropriate use of force	Unaccompanied children	13	5
CBP	Conditions of detention	Unaccompanied children	5	26
ICE	Discrimination/profiling	DHS law enforcement activity	1	8
ICE	Conditions of detention	Immigration detention	8	15
ICE	Sexual assault/abuse	Immigration detention	5	1
ICE	Medical/mental health care	Immigration detention	36	77

Most CRCL complaints are investigated and closed without the issuance of recommendations. This occurs in various instances, such as when allegations are unsubstantiated, when existing policy, procedures, and training are found to be sufficient, and when the Component has already addressed the concerns that we have identified through the complaint. When appropriate, CRCL concludes our investigation of a complaint through informal resolutions, which consist of real-time communications to components on pending issues and proposed resolutions. During the third and fourth quarters, CRCL transmitted informal resolutions to ICE and CBP to resolve issues arising in five complaints.

42 U.S.C. § 2000ee-1 Privacy and Civil Liberties Officers

Implementing Recommendations of the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007, Pub. L. No. 110-53, sec. 803, 121 Stat. 266, 360-362.

(a) Designation and functions

[T]he Secretary of Homeland Security . . . shall designate not less than 1 senior officer to serve as the principal advisor to—

(1) assist the head of such department, agency, or element and other officials of such department, agency, or element in appropriately considering privacy and civil liberties concerns when such officials are proposing, developing, or implementing laws, regulations, policies, procedures, or guidelines related to efforts to protect the Nation against terrorism;

(2) periodically investigate and review department, agency, or element actions, policies, procedures, guidelines, and related laws and their implementation to ensure that such department, agency, or element is adequately considering privacy and civil liberties in its actions;

(3) ensure that such department, agency, or element has adequate procedures to receive, investigate, respond to, and redress complaints from individuals who allege such department, agency, or element has violated their privacy or civil liberties; and

(4) in providing advice on proposals to retain or enhance a particular governmental power the officer shall consider whether such department, agency, or element has established—

(A) that the need for the power is balanced with the need to protect privacy and civil liberties;

(B) that there is adequate supervision of the use by such department, agency, or element of the power to ensure protection of privacy and civil liberties; and

(C) that there are adequate guidelines and oversight to properly confine its use.

(b) Exception to designation authority

(2) Civil liberties officers

In any department, agency, or element referred to in subsection (a) of this section . . . which has a statutorily created civil liberties officer, such officer shall perform the functions specified in subsection (a) of this section with respect to civil liberties.

(c) Supervision and coordination

Each privacy officer and civil liberties officer described in subsection (a) or (b) of this section shall—

- (1) report to the head of the department . . . ; and
- (2) coordinate their activities with the Inspector General of such department . . . to avoid duplication of effort.
- (d) Agency cooperation

The head of each department, agency, or element shall ensure that each privacy officer and civil liberties officer—

- (1) has the information, material, and resources necessary to fulfill the functions of such officer;
- (2) is advised of proposed policy changes;
- (3) is consulted by decision makers; and
- (4) is given access to material and personnel the officer determines to be necessary to carry out the functions of such officer.

(f) Periodic reports

(1) In general

The privacy officers and civil liberties officers of each department, agency, or element referred to or described in subsection (a) or (b) of this section shall periodically, but not less than quarterly, submit a report on the activities of such officers—

- (A)(i) to the appropriate committees of Congress, including the Committee on the Judiciary of the Senate, the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs of the Senate, the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform of the House of Representatives, the Select Committee on Intelligence of the Senate, and the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives;
- (ii) to the head of such department, agency, or element; and
- (iii) to the Privacy and Civil Liberties Oversight Board; and
- (B) which shall be in unclassified form to the greatest extent possible, with a classified annex where necessary.

(2) Contents

Each report submitted under paragraph (1) shall include information on the discharge of each of the functions of the officer concerned, including—

- (A) information on the number and types of reviews undertaken;
- (B) the type of advice provided and the response given to such advice;

(C) the number and nature of the complaints received by the department, agency, or element concerned for alleged violations; and

(D) a summary of the disposition of such complaints, the reviews and inquiries conducted, and the impact of the activities of such officer.

(g) Informing the public

Each privacy officer and civil liberties officer shall—

(1) make the reports of such officer, including reports to Congress, available to the public to the greatest extent that is consistent with the protection of classified information and applicable law; and

(2) otherwise inform the public of the activities of such officer, as appropriate and in a manner consistent with the protection of classified information and applicable law.

(h) Savings clause

Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit or otherwise supplant any other authorities or responsibilities provided by law to privacy officers or civil liberties officers.

II. Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Impact Assessments

As part of its statutory requirement, the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL) conducts in-depth examinations of the civil rights and civil liberties implications and effects of selected Department of Homeland Security (DHS) programs, and provides suggestions for improvements to those programs. There was no activity concerning impact assessments in the third and fourth quarters.

III. Investigations Data and Analysis

CRCL investigates complaints concerning:

- abuses of civil rights, civil liberties, and racial, ethnic, or religious profiling, 6 U.S.C. § 345(a)(1);
- compliance with constitutional, statutory, regulatory, policy, and other requirements relating to the civil rights or civil liberties of individuals affected by the programs and activities of the Department, 6 U.S.C. § 345(a)(4);
- possible abuses of civil rights or civil liberties, unless the DHS Office of the Inspector General determines that any such complaint or information should be investigated by the Inspector General, 6 U.S.C. § 345(a)(6); and
- department, agency, or element actions, policies, procedures, guidelines, and related laws and their implementation to ensure that such department, agency, or element is adequately considering civil liberties in its actions, 42 U.S.C. § 2000ee-1(a)(2).

Under these authorities, CRCL reviews and assesses civil rights and human rights complaints. These matters arise in a variety of contexts, which we designate in the tables that follow as “situations,” and raise one or more issues. The tables set forth here identify investigations by the primary situation and issue involved.

CRCL initiates investigations based on complaints received from the general public and non-governmental organizations by U.S. mail, email, and fax, and the CRCL telephone hotline, as well as through the DHS Traveler Redress Inquiry Program (TRIP). Incidents that might merit investigation are also forwarded to CRCL from other offices at DHS and other government agencies. Table 2, below, indicates investigations opened during the third and fourth quarters by the primary civil rights issue raised, the situation in which the investigation arose, and the DHS Component that was the primary subject of the investigation.

Pursuant to 6 U.S.C. § 345(a)(6) and internal DHS policies, CRCL begins the investigation process by referring all matters involving the conduct of DHS employees to the DHS Office of Inspector General (OIG).¹ OIG then determines whether or not it will investigate the case. In this report, such cases are designated OIG retained. If OIG declines to investigate the complaint, it is referred back to CRCL for appropriate action, at which point CRCL determines whether the case should be retained for CRCL’s own investigation (CRCL retained) or referred to the relevant DHS Component(s) (CRCL referred). Retained cases may be subject to a full investigation or short-form resolution.² A small number of cases are subject to a joint investigation, combining CRCL's investigative resources with those of the relevant Component(s). Investigations at any other stage are noted as in process.³ Table 3 describes all investigations, including those initiated prior to FY 2014, in process as of the last day of the quarter, under these categories. In cases where the OIG retains a complaint, once the OIG investigation is complete, the matter is returned to CRCL for consideration. CRCL may then close the matter or retain it for our own investigation. As Tables 4a and 4b indicate, there were two matters retained in the third quarter, and eight matters retained in the fourth quarter.

¹ Under the former DHS Secure Communities, complaints involving the activities of state or local law enforcement agencies, acting under state law, that came to CRCL via the Secure Communities complaint protocol were not initially referred to OIG, because they did not involve the conduct of ICE employees. CRCL would notify the Department of Justice, which has jurisdiction to investigate violations of civil rights by state and local officers of all investigations undertaken. The Secure Communities complaint protocol is posted on the ICE Secure Communities website, http://www.ice.gov/secure_communities.

² CRCL has implemented “short-form” complaint processing procedures to facilitate swift action on urgent complaints and expeditious resolution of allegations that are narrowly focused and require limited investigation.

If a case is referred to a Component for investigation, the Component issues a Report of Investigation to CRCL at the completion of the investigation, which is reviewed by CRCL. If the case is retained, CRCL conducts its own investigation and drafts an investigative report. When the investigation is complete, whether conducted by CRCL or the Component involved, CRCL provides senior leadership of the relevant Component(s) with its conclusions and any recommendations for improving policies, practices, or training. CRCL and the relevant Component then engage in a process to achieve consensus on the language describing, and planned implementation of, the recommendations.

At that time, we also notify the complainant of actions being taken as a result of our investigation. For CRCL's administrative processing purposes, these matters are deemed closed but are monitored for the implementation of the recommendations, which may require further discussions with the Components. Table 5 provides investigations closed during the third and fourth quarters, by issue, situation, and Component principally involved.

The short-form process makes it easier to open and close complaints, allowing speedier resolution. Cases that subsequently require additional work are converted to standard investigations.

³ The in process categories include multiple cases where Reports of Investigation (ROIs) have been received from Components and are currently under review within CRCL. For CRCL's purposes, these investigations remain in process until we have completed our review and response to the ROIs.
