2019-FEFO-00290	Department of Economics, Williams College	Gibson, Matthew	The following data request under the Freedom of Information Act: Variables I request the following NFIP policy aggregates for residential policies only: 1) policies in force (count) 2) insurance in force ($); and 3) written premium in force ($). If it is possible to provide each variable separately for primary and secondary residences (for a total of 6 variables), that will be helpful to our study. If separate data for primary and secondary residences are not available for all time periods, then I request the three variables for the totals (including both primary and secondary residences) for those periods and the six separated variables for the periods in which they are available. Temporal resolution and extent For each of the above variables and each of the below geographies, I request monthly values from 2001 through the most recent available month. Geographic resolution and extent My preferred geographic unit of analysis would be a Census Block. If data at that geographic resolution raise privacy concerns, then Census Tract or ZIP Code would also be workable. I request these data Blocks/Tracts/ZIPs in the following states: Florida, Texas, Louisiana, and New York. While the policy change we are studying was in Florida, we require data from other states to construct a control group. Our requested control-group states were selected using publicly available NFIP data, to avoid requesting data on all 50 states. Summary and example Data responsive to this request would be at the Census Block-month level. A single record might, for example, report policies in force, insurance in force, and premium in force, separately for both primary and secondary residences, for a particular Census Block in Texas in March 2013	2/13/2019
