Executive Summary

The FY 2005 DHS Appropriations Act (P.L. 108-334) requires the TSA Administrator to transmit an annual report on the collection of unclaimed money at airports and the expenditure of those funds. Congress directed TSA to provide an accounting of the amount of unclaimed money recovered in total and at each individual airport. TSA also was directed to describe how that money is being used to provide civil aviation security.

This report provides the amount of unclaimed money recovered from each airport and the total amount recovered during FY 2019, and describes how unclaimed money is being used for civil aviation security.

I. Legislative Requirement

This document is the Transportation Security Administration's (TSA) annual report on the collection of unclaimed money at airports during FY 2019 and the expenditure of those funds as required by the Fiscal Year (FY) 2005 Department of Homeland Security Appropriations Act (P.L. 108-334).

Specifically, section 515(b) of P.L. 108-334 states:

(b) ANNUAL REPORT – Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act and annually thereafter, the Administrator of the Transportation Security Administration shall transmit to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives; the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives; the Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation of the Senate; and the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate, a report that contains a detailed description of the amount of unclaimed money recovered in total and at each individual airport, and specifically how the unclaimed money is being used to provide civil aviation security.

II. Background

Unclaimed money is money that passengers leave behind at airport screening checkpoints. In most cases, this money consists of coins that passengers remove from their pockets while undergoing security screening. During FY 2019, TSA collected $926,030.44 in unclaimed money. Unclaimed money is deposited into a special fund account so that collection and spending of the money can be tracked easily.

Section 44945 of title 49, United States Code, grants TSA statutory budget authority to expend unclaimed money:

(a) Disposition of Unclaimed Money.—Notwithstanding section 3302 of title 31, unclaimed money recovered at any airport security checkpoint shall be retained by the Transportation Security Administration and shall remain available until expended for the purpose of providing civil aviation security as required in this chapter.

III. Data Report

A. Money Collected

The following table lists the amount of unclaimed money collected from each hub airport, the total amount of unclaimed foreign currencies collected, and the grand total of collections during FY 2019. A hub is a central airport that flights are routed through, and spokes are the routes that planes take out of the hub airport.

Spoke airports are not listed in the chart; however, they also collect unclaimed money at their checkpoints. This money is deposited to their respective hub airports. The hub airports then deposit a combined total of collections and send receipts of deposits to TSA headquarters. The amounts recorded to the airports reflect collected U.S. currency.

All unclaimed foreign currency is collected from airports and combined before it is exchanged into U.S. dollars to save conversion costs. During FY 2019, $18,899.09 was collected in foreign currency.

B. Expenditures of Unclaimed Money

In FY 2019, TSA collected $926,030.44. On September 30, 2019, TSA had a total of $3,618,696 in resources remaining from unclaimed money collected in FY 2019 and prior years. Of this, TSA has:

- Obligated $2,100,000 for training and development, of which $996,475.51 was expended during the year, and
- Spent $32,150 from prior-year obligations on printing and distributing bookmarks at checkpoints nationwide to publicize the TSA Pre✓® program.

At the end of FY 2019, TSA had $1,518,696 in unobligated resources available for use.

VI. Conclusion

TSA will continue to inform Congress on the use of unclaimed money to improve civil aviation security. TSA is committed to protecting the Nation's transportation systems to ensure the freedom of movement for people and commerce with minimal inconvenience to its customers. TSA tries to ensure that all traveler property, including loose change, finds its way back to the proper owner. However, when loose change does not, it will be directed to critical aviation security programs.
